Courtesy Traffic Tags Bring Town Helpful Publicity

Andover's courtesy tags for out-of-state motorists is bringing favorable publicity for the town in many far away places.

Mrs. Mary Bush of the Dame shop who was recently in New Orleans picked up the Times-Picayune while there and to her surprise came across an I.N.S. story which read:

"Motorists who violate traffic regulations to a minor degree in Andover receive cards praising the town rather than police tags.

"The cards extoll the community for its beauty, its schools and its many places of historic interest, then adds:

"We do ask that you observe our traffic rules. You will find our

Sportsmen Plan For Trap Shoot

A twilight trap shoot will feature the next meeting of the Andover Sportsmen club to be held at 6 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 11, at the club grounds opposite Berry pond in the Harold Parker forest.

The trap will precede the business session and this will be followed by a weenie roast. An open invitation is extended by the club to youngsters over 12 to join in the sport and remain for the entire program.

Discuss Plans For Formation Of Trade Board

Representatives of the town's various business interests met in the hall of the Square and Compass club last night to discuss the formation of a new board of trade for Andover.

Called under the sponsorship of the officers and mercantile committee of the Andover Service club the meeting took up the following questions: 1, to form an association to help business in town; 2, to promote a Christmas season atmosphere by decorating Main street with colored lights, holiday greens, and having a Santa Claus; 3, to discuss in open meetings all activities that would tend to promote and stimulate business in general for the benefit of all.

For several years past many merchants and business men have expressed a desire for an organization that would function strictly for the commercial and industrial interests of the town. They have felt the need of an authoritative group that could speak for them and their employees on matters of store hours, closing on holidays, participation in civic affairs and kindred matters.

Many of them were present last night and expressed their views on the proposed organization which seems to have created much interest since plans for its formation have been made public.

It is proposed that all interests, business and professional, be included in the association so that it will be truly representative of all and will work to the advantage of all in many civic activities.

LEGION MEETING

Andover post, 8, American Legion will hold its first meeting of the season tonight at 8 o'clock in the post rooms. Plans for the coming year will be discussed.

Schools Open With Record Enrollment

The public and parochial schools opened their doors Wednesday morning with the largest number of pupils in their history. The combined enrollment of 2216 is just 110 more than the 2106 of a year ago.

The total enrollment in the public schools Wednesday was 1792, a gain of 56 over a year ago. As was expected the largest increase came in the lower grades with the biggest at the Central schools.

Enrollment figures were:

	1951	1950
Punchard	325	310
Junior High	370	395
Central	587	514
Shawsheen	243	246
West	65	62
Bradlee	143	133
Indian Ridge	59	65
Total	1792	1736

St. Augustine's school opened with 424 pupils, a big gain over the 385 of the opening day last year. The increase was in the first five grades, with many pupils who could not be accommodated still on a waiting list.

Record Attendance On Playgrounds

A new record for attendance was established on the town's playgrounds which recently closed their 1951 season.

The total attendance for the eight successful weeks was 41,392, with the heaviest registration being recorded at Ballardvale with more than 15,400.

Central, usually the most heavily attended, fell off slightly this year because of the relocation of the play area made necessary by building operations in connection with the construction of the new elementary school. This left the children without the use of the heavy apparatus.

An innovation this season was the first annual "play day" of games and races held at Central for the children of all playgrounds. The annual picnic to Canobie Lake was enjoyed by an attendance of 296 children and mothers.

The annual carnival at Ballardvale Aug. 14 drew nearly 1000 patrons. A new profit of $90 was realized. This sum has been deposited to the credit of the Ballardvale Playground Assn. for the purchase of apparatus for the Vale playground when steel shortages are eased up.

Outdoor dancing was held at the Vale skating area and it is hoped that one or two more may be held there before the weather forces such activities indoors.

The future prospects for Andover seem extremely bright to a great many businessmen of the town who have been busy during the recent months expanding, remodeling and otherwise improving their places of business.

With the passing of Labor day, the return of summer vacationists to their home and the resumption of normal trade for the fall months, people of the town will find numerous shopping places have been renovated and spruced up to present a new and smarter appearance.

The merchants and other business representatives who have been investing thousands of dollars in their places of business are presenting in most definite terms the evidence of their faith in the future of Andover.

Improvements going on about town in recent months have been many. Numerous places of business have been spending considerable sums to improve their appearance and to provide better accommodations for their customers as their places of business expand along many lines.

The improvements and additions are in keeping with the great surge in home building operations that have been going on here in recent years. Present indications are that 1951 will be a good building year, too, although the month of August with only about $100,000 of new building being recorded, is slightly below the average of the earlier months of the year.

A quick survey of some of the Labor Day Passes Without Incident

The Labor day holiday in Andover passed without incident. The cold and inclement weather during the three-day period in which about 1½ inches of rain fell, had much to do with curtailing the extra heavy traffic expected by safety officials.

No traffic accidents were reported here. Several violators of traffic rules were booked, however, and they will appear in the local court later. Most of the charges were speeding or failure to slow down at intersections.

A juvenile was taken Sunday on charges of using an auto without a permit, driving without a license and leaving the scene after an accident. It is charged that he stole an automobile from a parking space at the Andover Playhouse and crashed a hydrant.

Box 58 was sounded at 7:01 p.m. Monday when a boiler at the playhouse emitted a cloud of steam but there was no fire.

The Glass Is Always Cleaner In The Other Fellow's Car

"I win!" said my seatmate as we unfolded our papers on the 8:08.

"Win what?"
"A bet. Joe Wallace bet me these car windows wouldn't be clean three days in a row."

"He isn't very observant," I told him. "The windows have been clean every day since last March."

"Is that so? I hadn't realized it either."

"Well," I said, "you can't guarantee that train windows will stay clean all day, any more than the windshield of your car will. And you can't stop a train just to clean the windows. But, with possibly a day off now and then, these windows will start the day clean right up to cold weather."

"Then the cleaning ladies will hibernate, I suppose."

"Cleaning ladies!" I'd been talking with Bill about clean cars, and I was on sure ground. "Cleaning ladies are only part of the story, and they work winter and summer. They clean the inside of the windows. They clean the floor and the luggage racks too, with specially shaped brushes. Then there's a crew of men who vacuum the seats."

"How about the outside?"

"There's where Yankee ingenuity comes into the picture.

The B and M has a car washer. Perhaps you've seen it in the North Station yards. It's a great big contraption that sits on both sides of a track. It's got nozzles that squirt water and soap under high pressure. It's got huge vertical brushes about 8 feet long that revolve at high speed. The cars—and the diesels, too—are pushed past this sort of robot and it soaks 'em with soap—the brushes scrub 'em—and they come out at the other end through a water spray clean."

My seatmate was interested. "Say, that's quite a rig," he remarked.

"It is," I answered, "and it cleans a car in about two minutes. The B and M puts every train—and every diesel—through it at least once a week."

"Then why are our car windows dirty in the winter?"

"You live in New England and ask me that?" I laughed. "Well—I'll tell you. This car washer, naturally is outdoors. So—"

"Say no more!" My friend held up his hand. "And next winter I won't complain."

"But," he ended with a sigh, as he looked out the window, "Boy! how I do like the good old summertime!"

Mrs. Thomas M. O'Riordan of Avon st. is visiting relatives in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Thaxter Eaton of Abbot st. have returned from a weekend spent at Durham, N.H. where they attended the session of the Northern New England School of Religious Education, of which Mr. Eaton is a director.

Kendall Longe Jr. of Main st. has returned from a two weeks' cruise in Buzzards Bay as first mate on the 39 ft. sloop "Savage", owned by T. D. Russell of Fishers Island, N. Y. Kendall Longe Jr. is now vacationing in Maine with his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalton and family of Chestnut st. have returned from a vacation spent at Biddeford Pool, Me.

School Doors Open

The various schools in Andover are opening their doors this month to a young army of more than 4100 boys and girls, the largest ever enrolled here.

All of the town's public and private schools are expected to be filled to capacity when final registrations for the new school term are tabulated.

Phillips academy, Abbot academy, the Sacred Heart, Pike and Marland schools have practically the same capacity number of enrollments as in the past several years. Merrimack college, with a large entering class which includes 50 girls, will have only slightly more than a year ago as upper classes have lost a number of students to the armed forces of the nation.

The big increase, however, is in the kindergarten and lower grades of the public schools and St. Augustine's school where the expected influx of "war babies" is being felt. This great wave of "war baby" enrollment is being experienced in all schools across the nation.

Total enrollment in the town's public schools has already surpassed the estimated figure given in the June 1949 report of the school survey made here by the school consultants, Jesse B. Davis and Cyril G. Sargent. Furthermore, it is expected to continue increasing in the lower grades through the year 1956 when the "bulge" then passing through them will make itself felt in the upper levels.

As a result of this survey two new grade schools are now in the process of construction. They will provide facilities for future gains in school population for the next several years and will remedy the present situation where class rooms in the Junior High school have to be set aside for two morning and two afternoon classes of kindergarteners.

One of the reasons for the unexpected gain in our school population is the number of new families that have moved into town. This particular increase could not be foreseen, but it is here.

All are part of the young army now filling Andover's schools where teaching staffs will devote the next ten months to the task of training them to become future citizens in the best American tradition.

INTERNATIONAL WHIRLIGIG — By John Fisher

New Efforts Being Made To Penetrate Iron Curtain

New efforts are being made by Americans—officially and otherwise—to penetrate the Iron Curtain and bring spiritual and material aid to captive peoples who still refuse to accept communism.

In the forefront are newly organized movements by American citizens of European blood and exiles in both Europe and the United States.

They are increasingly alarmed by the torrents of communist propaganda saturated with hatred for America, that is showered on their fathers' homelands and by the purges that are killing off all types of opponents of the Red regimes.

With them it is a race to maintain hope among the isolated peoples and furnish some form of help to resistance movements before the public despairs or the active opponents are either imprisoned or executed.

A drive to encourage non-Communists in Soviet bloc states has just been started in Washington by the Federation of Americans of Central and Eastern European descent, where a national headquarters has been opened.

Nine major American nationality groups are affiliated with the Federation—Polish, Lithuanian, Ukrainian, Byelorussian, Slovak, Carpatho-Ruthenian, Hungarian, Croatian and Serbian. Arrangements are being completed to include Latvian, Estonian, Czech, Rumanian and Bulgarian groups.

America's Voice Still Heard

Despite its multi-language character, the organization is American with American-born and American-educated leadership. Among its top men are Joseph A. Jackovics, secretary general, Dr. Lev E. Dobriansky of Georgetown university, president of the Ukrainian Congress committee of America and Stephen E. Balogh, executive secretary of the American Hungarian Federation.

Another organization in close contact with the resistance movement in sorely persecuted Czechoslovakia is the National Committee for Liberation of Slovakia, of which Dr. V. S. Krajcovic of Washington is chairman. Evidence of the importance of tangible signs of American friendship was revealed by him last week.

A message was smuggled to him from the "Liberty Legion" of the Slovak underground thanking Cong. Charles J. Kersten of Wisconsin for introducing a resolution in congress directing our representative in the United Nations to demand "free elections to be held for the Czech and Slovak peoples under police supervision of the United Nations."

"One of the most powerful weapons we can give European undergrounds," declared Dr. Krajcovic, who was liberated from a Hitler concentration camp by Patton's army, "is to promise them self-determination as in the Kersten resolution. Without that assurance resistance members would not to."

Martin Bartesaveoc, 69-year-old woodcutter, burned to death in his camp in West Andover. Fire started from overturned kerosene lamp.

Playgrounds close for the season. Patricia Robinson won gold medal at Central for winner of the "most activity" points. Robert Creamer won gold medal at Shawshen and Jackie Murname won gold medal at Ballardvale.

day have the heart either to work or fight against communism."

Underground Is Effective

The hope of such assurance has buoyed them up now. The Czechoslovakian "Liberty Legion" is one of the best resistance movements in Europe. As early as 1945 Czechs and Slovaks tried hard to stop the growing power of local Communists. "White Partisans" in the mountains harassed the Reds.

After Potsdam, which boosted communist strength, "Crusaders" appeared, wearing on coat lapels a Christian cross, the insignia of membership. This was banned.

Pious people than took advantage of religious pilgrimages to shrines and church gatherings. Previously these were attended only by a few. But from 1946 until stopped by the government, when the Reds seized control in 1948, as many as 50,000 participated in a single pilgrimage as their most effective way of expressing their opposition to communism.

Since then has come more desperate resistance. Saboteurs blew up viaducts and railroad bridges en route to Russia. To bring in food communist authorities used military trucks. But partisans attacked the trucks in the Dargov mountains and carried off the food and the weapons of the convoys.

Other underground daredevils so blocked the railroad to Poland that it was out of commission for two months. When Red police and soldiers in March of this year attempted to liquidate the resistance groups, anti-communist partisans from the Russian Ukraine slipped across the border and helped the Slovak freedom fighters.

Another Czech branch of resistance is the "White Legion," engaged chiefly in psychological warfare. It operates clandestine papers and radios, telling the people how the Red government is sending 15-year-old boy slaves to the mines or what America is doing in defense mobilization.

We Must Be Careful

Ukrainian, Polish and Hungarian underground contact in America point out that as communist vigilance and oppression increase, the greater is the need of material aid. They say the resistance people want small printing presses, paper, ink and portable radio transmitters so they can spread their messages.

They welcome helpful printed matter from the outside and later would be eager for tommy guns. But at this stage most—except in forest or mountains—resistance groups discourage violence as too often it brings punishment and death to innocent families of the fighters.
